

On behalf of this year's Leading Courageously for Racial Equity conference committee, I'd like to thank you all for lending your voices to the truly transformative principals panel last week. Your passion for racial equity, your educational expertise, and your strategic execution of leadership moves for your respective schools were bold and transparent. You modeled for others that this work is not only necessary but possible.

I heard from so many people who were inspired by the example that you set. Here are a few of their words:

This is the most insightful conference I've been to since moving to MN 6 years ago. Thank you for sharing your stories and pushing me to be
